RABBI FEINBERG'S RESIGNATION

Rabbi Maurice N. Eisendrath

It is encouraging that amid all the currents and cross currents of uninformed and hysteric discussions on Russia, Palestine, and a host of other ill understood world problems, that one domestic event, at least, has pushed its way into the headlines of our Jewish press. Certain it is that Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg in resigning from Temple Israel of New York deserves our most profound gratitude for turning our thoughts, for the nonce at least, to our own American (and we include Canadian in that designation) plight. While we have been perturbed about the fate of Judaism in Russia and of Jews in Palestine—both fully justifiable and imperative—we have been too smugly satisfied that all was well within our own borders. Have not an unprecedented number of new synagogues, schules, and Temples pushed their towering domes heavenward; have we ever had such mammoth and expensive houses of worship and community centers in the past? Surely American Jewry is thriving and we need have no fear.

But along comes Rabbi Feinberg, who in scathing syllables and with prophetic austerity, charges American Israel with the crime of a glaring and patent hypocrisy. Huge, expensive structures they have reared, "dedicated to God, but empty of man except on special holiday occasions. Like the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, they seem, loaded with material treasure, but bereft of life."

This much of Rabbi Feinberg's indictment none who attends the Sabbath services in all but a few synagogues throughout this entire continent can dare to deny. But Rabbi Feinberg continues to paint an even direr picture.

These immense edifices demand expanded budgets to maintain them. As in the business world, the clientele must be increased to provide for greater "overhead". Membership drives and "mergers" become the order of the day, and once the roster of members grows in length, it is the duty of the rabbi to see that it is not in any way diminished. Thus the possibility of losing a "front pew" member is more to be feared than the wrath of God. The complex machinery and efficient index filed administration of our modern synagogues have converted many a contemporary rabbi into a "salesman," a purveyor of "pew rentals," a "good fellow, rather than a poet, a dreamer, a transcendent mystic," a "seeker after popularity" rather than a champion of unpopular though humanitarian causes, a panderer rather than a prophet.

But if the rabbi, despite all these demands of a commercialized, jazzy, and materialistic age, remains a rabbi none the less, a transmitter of truth and an articulate spokesman of justice and equity; if he defies the requirements of his highly organized and overly budgetted institution, and seeks none the less to remain loyal to the spiritual values which he has always felt were more important to the preservation of his faith, than aught else besides, then he is "quietly advised, sometimes tactfully, frequently bluntly" that for the good of the cause he really ought "to steer clear of all non-religious subjects." And what, pray tell, are these non religious themes? Medieval commentaries on Biblical texts, we presume; conjectures as to the exact state of the soul in the world to come; meticulate delineations of the features of God's countenance; in fact, any subject which will aid in anaesthetizing the conscience and dulling the spirit of social revolt; or, as Rabbi Feinberg puts it, "any subject that has nothing to do with politics, economics, or sex; any subject that steers clear of the three basic hungers of life: the hunger for society, the hunger for food, the hunger for sex." Our old world may be torn asunder by these very issues, but the "ambassador of God, the servant of man" must scrupulously avoid these "delicate and contentious matters." Or perhaps they are too filthy for the synagogue to soil its purity thereon? But if so they be; if our politics be corrupt, if our economic arrangements be satanic, and our social and sexual order be silly, or even nigh unto absurd, then these evils, putrid and rotten, as they may at present seem, form the foremost challenge to the synagogue to purge them of their vile stench. For surely, if the synagogue becomes divorced from the seething currents of the life which surrounds it, then in truth it has outlived its usefulness, and it has become but a God forsaken and man forgotten museum.

But therein devolves the responsibility upon the shoulders of just such men as Rabbi Feinberg to remain in the synagogue to vitalize it, to fire it with their imagination, and to lead it toward their ideals until they be literally forced if need be, to forsake its midst. The fact that Rabbi Feinberg left the synagogue of his own volition, and not wholly because of its admitted shortcomings is the only valid criticism of his action. With those who maintain that he was the very man most needed in the rabbinate, and that he should have fought for his principles within the far from perfect organization of which he was a part, we quite agree, but we are immensely amused at those others of our colleagues who have castigated him as "immature" and as a "youthful idealist." "Immature?" Well, perhaps. At least so he must seem to those who have made such easy truce with their conscience and their ideals, to those who have "passed through that stage, don't you know" and have arrived at the impregnable refuge of the Expedient, the Safe and the Sane. It seems to us that Bernard Shaw once said in Major Barbara "Churches are suffered to exist only on condition that they preach submission to the State as at present capitalistically organized, and this is why no tolerated Church can win the confidence of the poor. It must ever be on the side of the police and the military, no matter what it supposedly believes or disbelieves, and as the military and the police are generally on the side which robs and oppresses the poor, the church becomes a sort of auxiliary force, taking off the insurrectionary edge of poverty with coals and blankets, bread and treacle, soothing and cheering them with immense and inexpensive hopes in another world when the process of working them to death will be complete in this."

So Rabbi Feinberg is only as superficial and as immature as G. B. S. himself. And could any finer satire be written on the sad plight of the synagogue today than that some of its rabbis should have branded Rabbi Feinberg as a youthful "idealist." So idealism is no longer consistent with organized Judaism. Strange, is it not? And yet, not so strange in the light of humanity's treatment of its truest idealists: Jeremiah, cast into the dungeon; Socrates, made to drink the hemlock; the rabbi of Nazareth, crucified upon the cross; Giordano Bruno, burned at the stake; and Spinoza, excommunicated.

Their hats and shoes matched and they carried bouquets of Columbia roses. Sam Poulin, Mac Katkin, and Sol Abramowitz were groomsmen. Ushers were Sidney Abramowitz, Edward Abramowitz, Sol Marcus, Dave Feldman, and Milton Eliasoph. Mrs. Abramowitz, mother of the bride, wore fuschia colored lace with hat and shoes to match and a corsage of orchids and lilies-of-the-valley. Dinner was served to 200 guests followed by a reception. From out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. M. Prager and Miss Vivian Raphaer of New York; Sam Poulin, of Jersey City; Mr. and Mrs. Rothman, of Smith Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Bergman, of Windsor, Ont. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sager are spending their honeymoon in New York and Atlantic City. They will live in the Bellevue Apartments, Bloomfield Avenue. Going away the bride wore a violet-colored chiffon gown with shoes, bag and baku hat to match and a grey squirrel coat.

Silverman-Schwartz

The marriage of Claire, youngest daughter of B. Schwartz, to George Silverman, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Silverman, was solemnized Sunday, March 16, at Beth David Synagogue, with Rabbi Julius Berger officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her ivory crepe and cream lace gown was made with circular skirt, long lace sleeves, her veil of net arranged with a lace cap and orange blossoms on either side, was tied under the chin. She carried calla lilies and a shower of lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Rose Silverman, sister of the groom, was maid of honor wearing yellow crepe satin trimmed in green, and a yellow and green mohair hat and green shoes. She carried a bouquet of pale Tea roses. Harry Silverman, brother of the groom, was best man. The bridesmaids were Misses Pauline Isenman, in mauve chiffon with silver sequin bodice; Edith Bailey, rose and green printed crepe; Belle Pomerance, white satin and green; Freda Pomerance, silver bodice and green tulle skirt; Sarah Isenman, white tulle; and Bessie Crystal, silver sequin bodice and mauve tulle skirt. They all wore hats and shoes to match and carried bouquets of roses. The groomsmen were Aubie Isenman, Arthur Bailey, Nathan Bailey, Hyman Schrieder, Hyman Crystal, and Harry Handman. Evelyn Krasove was the flower girl in a little green georgette frock. Maurice Schwartz was page boy. Mrs. S. J. Schwartz, sister-in-law of the bride, wore a black net gown with hat to match and Mrs. Silverman, mother of the groom, wore black lace trimmed with black cut velvet and lace hat to match. Their corsages were

HEAPS SCORES MONTREAL

Montreal is a disgraceful city, in the opinion of A. A. Heaps, Labor member of Parliament for Winnipeg North, who spoke on behalf of Ald. Joseph Schubert at a meeting of St. Louis ward voters in Prince Arthur Hall Sunday afternoon, March 16. As compared with Winnipeg and other cities of the west, he intimated, Montreal is still living in the dark ages; and he suggested as a means of rising from its comparative obscurity that Montreal should municipalize its electricity, water and gas service, bring honesty to its elections and establish children's clinics in order to reduce its infant mortality rate, which is twice as high as that of Winnipeg.

In his praise of the west at the expense of the east, Mr. Heaps dwelt at some length on dishonest elections and told the story of a young man from Montreal who, in 1926, journeyed to Winnipeg and offered to help Mr. Heaps in his election campaign by securing 200 votes by telegraphing. "If you don't believe me," Mr. Heaps reported the young man to have said, "ask Ald.——," a former member of Montreal's city council. The proposal was to Mr. Heaps so absurd that he advised the young man to hasten back to Montreal lest he find himself in jail. "For that is how we treat people who bring about corrupt elections," the Labor member said, "we put them in jail."

"Montreal," he said in another part of his address, "is, in a civic sense, one of the most backward cities in Canada. It is the only city I have seen that has no proper street traffic regulations. Its housing conditions, particularly in St. Louis ward, are disgraceful. I sometimes think that if an earthquake should occur here and destroy property but not life, it would be a good thing for Montreal. I repeat, housing conditions are a disgrace to the city.

"That, too, is one of the reasons why you have about the highest infant mortality rate on the continent. Do you know that four thousand infants under one year of age die here each year, when they could be saved? That is all due to bad administration. The Labor party stands for giving each child a chance of life."

In Winnipeg, the Labor member continued, the infant mortality rate is half that of Montreal. That, he explained, is largely due to the fact that children's clinics, owned and operated by the municipality, are functioning splendidly, with two doctors and about 15 nurses in constant service. Whenever a child is born the nurses visit the home and, if the parents are poor, give whatever attention is necessary and the municipality sees that parent and child are provided with milk. "Why can you not do something like that in Montreal?" Mr. Heaps asked. He had seen some Montreal voluntary social organizations, but found them to be hampered by lack of funds.

Winnipeg, he went on, owns and operates its own light and power system and in nearly every home cooking is done by electricity at exceedingly low cost, about 9.10ths of a cent per hour, against about five cents per kilowatt hour in Montreal. Moreover, the whole of the centre of Winnipeg is heated by one central heating plant, electrically operated. This work was carried out, he stated, by the Winnipeg council of 1923, which was largely made up of Labor members pledged to the principle of public ownership.

Touching again on corrupt elections, Mr. Heaps pointed out that his first election to Parliament cost $700, whereas he understood that in Montreal, it cost about $60,000 to elect a man to the House of Commons. Such a condition, he believed, was disgraceful and would not be tolerated in the west for five minutes.

Ald. Schubert's appeal to the electors was based on his record at the City Hall. He had sought increases for civic employees whenever he could, he said; had worked for the establishment of an eight-hour day; insisted on a fair wage contract from all city contractors; supported the introduction of mechanical snow-loaders and insisted that more money be spent on snow removal.

He had led the fight against the repeal of the early-closing law; had led the fight for the $100,000 unemployment fund; strongly opposed the levying of a tax on outside workers; introduced resolutions calling for a tax on all public utility companies using the city streets; suggested the establishment of bread shops by the city as a remedy against the bread trust; criticized the method of referendum which deprives the workers who have no property from voting.

Further, the alderman stated, he had supported the movement to utilize school grounds as summer play centres; agitated for more parks and playgrounds; asked for more music in the parks; helped to give the city more power to pave lanes, and did many other things in the interests of the workers and the people of Montreal generally. A. Velicovitz presided.

YOUNG JUDAEA

Sunday, March 16, when Young Judaea entertained the Junior members of the organization to celebrate Purim, and inaugurate the Second Young Judaea Hebrew University Scholarship Campaign, the program was opened by S. H. Abrahamson, supervisor of Montreal Young Judaea. A recitation was given by Miss Eunice Freeman. A. M. Klein, Educational Director of Young Judaea, discussed the Scholarship Campaign. Miss Nancy Goodman played the piano. Joseph Frank, president of Montreal Young Judaea, spoke on Purim. Motion pictures of Palestinian life were shown by Mr. Halperin and explained by Mr. Abrahamson. Refreshments.

In the evening the Dalzis Club were hostesses at the annual Judaean Purim masquerade and dance. About 100 guests were present. Program: songs by Miss Rae Weiser accompanied by Miss Fanny Slapack at the piano. The judges awarded three prizes for the most beautiful costumes. Winners were Misses Fanny Slapack, Rose Barsky, and Mamie Goldberg. Judges were Miss Lee Schultz and Nathan Shuster and S. H. Abrahamson.

In the Dalse Boys' debate, Mr. Green upheld the affirmative; and Mr. Croft the negative. March 19, they will hold their first annual banquet. For the Scholarship Campaign, Dr. A. O. Freedman, Joseph Frank, Nathan Gaisin, Philip Meyerovitch, Samuel Chait and Samuel Berlin have contributed. Sunday Schools of the Y.M.H.A., Bnai Jacob Synagogue, Temple Emanuel are assisting.

Rabbi Reviews Anti-Semitism

Scholars of the 19th and early part of the 20th century advanced the theory that the rebirth of a Jewish homeland in Palestine would solve the world-wide problem of anti-Semitism. Still another school of thought advocated the calling of Jewish congresses to further Jewish interests by a united front on all problems, Rabbi Harry J. Stern, of Temple Emanu-El, pointed out that these ideals had been realized, but still anti-Semitism persisted throughout the civilized and half-civilized world. He expressed the belief that the future was bound up with the future progress of the world.

In his address "Purim, the Festival of Lots," commemorating a victory by the Jewish people over blind prejudice and dark anti-Semitism in the days of Ahasuerus, King of Persia, before the Mount Royal Lodge No. 777 B.B.B. at their annual dinner celebration Sunday evening, March 16, Rabbi Stern said that the festival, in future days, would emphasize not so much the Hamans or Hamanists, arch-enemies of Israel, as the humanists, great souls of every nation and people who spread the gospel of equality and brotherhood.

The Jew of the future, he added, would emphasize the import of the philo-Semites, admirers of the Jews, rather than the anti-Semites who seek to destroy them. He instanced the constructive influence exerted by such humanists as Reuchlin, Emile Zola and Lessing in their fight for tolerance and better understanding of Israel's position among the nations of the world. He cited the magnificent gesture on the part of Thomas Masaryk, president of Czechoslovakia, in extending a general welcome to Jewish students throughout Europe to attend the University of Prague and other institutions of learning in his country when other universities closed their doors to them.

The late William Howard Taft, in his position of chief executive of the United States, abrogated a treaty with Russia, he said, because of the Czar's discrimination and hatred of Israel as a people. "Here in Montreal, too, he added, other philo-Semites, great Christian souls, are translating Christianity in terms of human brotherhood and love."

Enlarging on his subject, Rabbi Stern drew a picture of the tragedy of Israel among the nations of the world during the past 2,000 years. He stated that conditions at the writing of the Book of Esther did not need retouching for present-day purposes, except for a change of persons and places. The cry of Haman, he said, was the same cry as that raised by the anti-Semites today. He quoted Chapter 3, verse 8, of The Book of Esther, to illustrate his point . . . "And Haman said to King Ahasuerus: "There is a certain people scattered abroad" and dispersed among the people in all the provinces of thy kingdom; and their laws are diverse from all people; neither keep they the king's laws; therefore it is not for the king's profit to suffer them. If it please the king, let it be written that they may be destroyed."

Neither civil nor political emancipation in the various countries was thought sufficient to raise the position of Jewry among the nations of the world. Dr. Pinsker, a Russian physician of note, was one of those who advocated the creation of a Jewish state in Palestine as the only solution of the Jewish problem. He described anti-Semitism as a psychic disorder, a hereditary disease transmitted from generation to generation. Theodore Herzl combined the ideology of Dr. Pinsker, and was responsible for the birth of political Zionism. Shomer, a German Jew, evolved the theory of co-ordination of effort through congresses. Phillip Meyerovitch, president, was in the chair, and Horace Cohen thanked the speaker. Max Cabach and Nat Cohen entertained.

MINISTER SUGGESTS JEWISH COMMITTEE TO SOLVE SCHOOL PROBLEM

Five Jews to be named by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council will form the Jewish Committee of the Council of Education of the Province of Quebec; and, if necessary, a school commission to administer such Jewish schools as may be operated in school municipalities of the Island of Montreal, according to the terms of the bill to be presented to the House by Hon. Athanase David, Provincial Secretary, for the solution of Montreal's Jewish school problem.

The five appointees, will, thus, be both members of the Council of Education and School Commissioners, it being indicated that as some 95 per cent of the province's Jews live in and around Montreal, no additional commissions will be necessary.

Taxes on Jewish property will go to the commission, if it is put in, and also a share from the neutral panel, division of which will be made at 70 per cent for Catholics, 20 per cent for Protestants and 10 per cent for Jews. The temporary arrangement put into force last year will not be renewed, and thus the Catholic taxation rate will remain at 7 mills, as heretofore. The set sum of $60 maximum per child is repeated in the new law, but the clause to this effect is one of those which only goes into effect on proclamation.

The bill also empowers the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council to abrogate the act of 1903, whereby Jews were declared Protestants for school purposes, the law having been adjudged illegal by the Privy Council.

It is not yet certain that a separate panel will be affected, for the Jewish committee of the Council of Education is empowered to make arrangements with either Catholic or Protestant school commissions for the education of Jewish children. A central board of examiners, like those now in force for Protestant and Catholic schools, may also be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council.

BOOK SHOWER HELD

"Just A Club" gave a book shower at the Balfour Cafeteria, to replenish the library of the Mt. Sinai Sanitorium. About 200 books received were forwarded March 17th, to the Sanitorium, under the care of Dr. Mendels. Modernistic and Nightingale Clubs gave their co-operation. Miss B. Zabitsky is secretary.

The Club met at the home of Miss G. Goldberg March 12th. H. M. Caiserman spoke of his trips through Palestine. The meeting March 19th, was held at the home of Miss Schreier.

COMMENTARIES

Associate Contributing Editor

NON-ZIONISTS IN MONTREAL

Judging from a statement recently made by a Zionist official in authority, the only influential people in Canada, it would seem, are the Zionists. This is certainly not true in the case of Montreal. Some of the most outstanding Jews in our city have no direct sympathy with political Zionism and the entire ideology of a national Jewish home. If some of them do contribute a few crumbs to the annual Palestine appeal—it is for "good reasons" other than Zionism. When one compares Westmount Jewry's contribution to Federation with that of its giving to the annual Palestine appeal—he will soon learn how inconsequental is the re-habilitation of Palestine for the wealthy Jewish section of our community. Certainly the native Jews of Westmount are not found actively, or even passively, engaged in Zionist work.

If, among the non-Zionists in Montreal there cannot be found a Warburg—then the reverse also holds true. Among the Zionists in Canada there is not to be found even a Lipsky—let alone a Stephen S. Wise and a Nathan Straus.

Now, it seems to me that a branch of the Jewish Agency will ultimately be established in Montreal. The purpose of the Agency will be to bring in the non-Zionists in the work of Palestinian re-habilitation. But more is expected from such an organization! It is also expected to aid in the relief work of East Europe! At present there is no permanent Jewish Distribution Committee in Montreal. An agency unit would inaugurate a joint appeal both for Palestine as well as for the reconstruction work in East Europe.

Canadian Jewry is no different from Jewry of other lands. It needs a Jewish Agency to establish Jewish co-operation for relief of our brethren wherever they be found. Let not Zionist officials claim that Canada is an exception among the Jewish communities of the world. It sounds like saying—"Everybody is out of step but Jim."

Rabbi Eisendrath's Editorial

We regret deeply Rabbi Feinberg's resignation; we needed him to strengthen the ranks of our comtemporary youthful idealists, but we are grateful for his challenge which cannot be ignored.

JEWISH CULTURE IN AMERICA

While speaking of Rabbi Feinberg and the fact that for the moment he has directed our gaze to the American scene with all its problems and needs, we are reminded of another grim tragedy which has resulted from our neglect of our own direst demands, and our failure, sometimes at least, to begin our charity at home. For many years now, one of the finest cultural movements in America, Jewishly speaking, has been floundering upon the tempestuous sea of indifference and apathy, often coming dangerously close to the threatening rocks of bankuptcy and subsequent oblivion. It is to the shame of American Jewry that this most worthy endeavor has received such lukewarm support which we understand is particularly true of us in Canada. We are constantly mouthing phrases concerning the recrudescence of Jewish culture nad the rebirth of Jewish values while we permit an institution in our very midst to flounder and eke out a bare existence. If the Menorah Movement achieved nothing else but the publication, The Menorah Journal, perhaps the finest Jewish organ issued in our day, certainly the most erudite and representative periodical published on this continent, it would be entitled to the wholehearted and generous support of all American Jewry. But it does much more. For years—except when lack of funds prevented—it has maintained an excellent Summer School, a splendid Lecture Forum, while its pioneer work among the Jewish students in the universities is too well known to require mention here. Surely every Canadian Jew who boasts of his interest in Jewish culture should be a subscriber to the Menorah Journal, and every one who takes pride in the survival of Jewish values (for the ridiculously nominal sum involved) should become a sustaining member of the Menorah Society.

Do You Know This Man?

Samuel Wilson left Poland some twenty years ago at the request of his brother who was in the dry goods business (or else was the owner of a department store) in Toronto. About seventeen years ago he left for Chicago and later came to Salt Lake City. It is believed that Samuel Wilson's brother had a son who was killed in action in the World War. Other information regarding him is as follows: age, about 42; father's name: Aaron Meyer; mother's name: Miriam Esther; name of one sister: Yente. After father's death family was engaged in bakery business in Poland. Anyone who can help to locate Mr. Wilson will confer a great favor to his family. WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT REMEMBERS HIS CHURCH

All agree that William Howard Taft was a noble man. His departure caused mourning among all peoples and races. But the nobility of this eminent American is beautifully shown by his last will and testament. He remembered his church most generously. This great American thus has shown his firm faith in religion and religious institutions. What a fine example for Jews as well as Christians!

THE FIRST JEW IN THE HALL OF FAME—A RABBI

It is gratifying to learn that the first Jew nominated for New York University's Hall of Fame is Rabbi Isaac M. Wise—founder of American Reform Judaism. There is no doubt that Isaac M. Wise belongs in the Hall of the Famous and the Great. His organizing genius has made possible three influential Jewish organizations—all part of the main body—The Union of American Hebrew Congregations. Certainly his founding of the Hebrew Union College alone places him among the elect of Israel. But what I like about this selection of Isaac M. Wise, is that it is so truly in keeping with Jewish history and tradition. Our great in Israel have ever been men of Torah. We have ever glorified and accounted as noted the men who were spiritual-minded. Our great were not "great" by virtue of their material possessions. Our famous have been men who loved the Book: men who led lives characterized by goodness and righteousness. These might have been, materially speaking, among the poorest—but, because they constituted a spiritual aristocracy, they were the chosen in Israel. We named such-Rabbis, sages, Talmud Chachomim. How fitting then that the first Jew in the Hall of Fame should be a Rabbi!

Catholic View of Jewish School Problem

That some anxiety exists concerning the outcome of the agitation in favor of a separate school system for the Jewish people is evidenced by the fact that the Catholic School Board of Montreal held a special meeting of the administrative and pedagogic commissions Friday, March 14, behind closed doors, all members being in attendance, to receive and consider the report of Victor Dore, general president, which he had been requested to prepare at a previous meeting of the administrative commission.

After making an investigation into the many aspects of such a complicated question, Mr. Dore stated that there exists some apprehension as to the consequences of such a move, but his colleagues and himself were ready to face the situation and help to the best of their ability in bringing about a solution.

The report states that the Jewish school problem exists, but that the Catholic School Board itself is not the competent authority to settle it.

After giving an outline of the historical aspect of the different education Acts since 1867, showing the spirit of the legislation and the effort of the legislators to be fair in every respect, the president presented an analysis of the present Jewish school bill, to be introduced shortly.

Mr. Dore's report was concerned more with the financial aspect of the whole question and more particularly as regards the distribution of the neutral panel or corporation taxes.

"I want it to be understood that it is primarily a Jewish school problem. As to the non-Catholics and non-Protestants in Catholic and Protestant schools, their number is comparatively small, and the question of cost of their education can be dealt with easily. In fact," continued the president, "an extract of the assessor's roll of the city shows that they pay between $80,000 to $100,000 of school taxes per year. The number of the pupils attending the schools of the city is about 1,700 and therefore, the sum of $100,000 distributed to the existing school boards practically ensures the reimbursement of the cost of education of these children, on a basis of $60 per child in school."

As to the Jewish problem itself, two alternatives are offered. First, if the proposed bill establishing Jewish schools is adopted by the Quebec Legislature and the Jewish people of Montreal avail themselves of its provisions, establishing a school system of their own, the financial question is settled, because all school boards interested, Catholic, Protestant or Jewish, will receive from the neutral panel an apportionment proportionate of their respective population, according to the figures of the last census.

Mr. Dore's memorandum mentions the fact that a more logical distribution of the taxes coming from the neutral panel would be proportionate in regard to number of children in the schools under the different denominations and this solution would appear to be the more acceptable.

The second alternative contemplates the possibility of a separate system of Jewish schools not being organized, the Jewish children going to Protestant schools as in the past. Then, as it is the duty of the community to provide educational facilities for all future citizens, the Catholic School Board of Montreal recognizing its duty towards all the minorities, declares itself ready to contribute to the cost of education of such minorities.

"Our share," said Mr. Dore "should not be otherwise decided than in determining the causes of the deficit growing out of the educational facilities afforded the Jewish pupils and, to be fair to ourselves, such deficit should be met out of the revenue of the existing school boards, pro rata of their population. If it is fair to share the corporation taxes in proportion to the population, it is only fair to pay such deficits on the same basis. The question arises, as to how this deficit can be determined."

Mr. Dore's formula is as follows: What the Jewish people pay to Protestant schools, plus what they bring to the same fund out of the neutral panel, according to their numbers, subtracted from the total cost of education of their children, is the real deficit which should be borne by both sections of the present school system in Montreal.

"For instance," he continued, "an examination of the school taxes paid this year indicates that the Jewish people paid to the Public School Board the sum of $513,980, and the share of the neutral panel also brought to the Public School Board $283,036, or a total of $797,017. If the cost of education to the Jewish people is about $900,000, there would be $102,983 deficit to divide as between the Catholic and the Protestant school boards, pro rata of their respective populations."

Such is the gist of the memorandum presented by Victor Dore to his colleagues of the Board, and after a careful scrutiny and consideration of the questions of principle and other motifs involved, it was adopted unanimously. The secretary, Jean Casgrain, has been instructed to have it printed and immediately distributed to the members of both Houses at Quebec and other parties interested in educational matters.

Health Service

MATERNITY

Any healthy woman with normal heart, lungs and kidneys may expect to go through pregnancy with no greater risk than we all take in walking down the street. Pregnancy occasionally brings the expectant mother into danger. There are accidents of pregnancy just as there are street accidents. In general, accidents may be prevented; if the expectant mother takes reasonable care to safeguard herself and her child from the accidents of pregnancy, she has no reason to be fearful.

Too many women have a miserable pregnancy, because they have listened to a lot of silly stories told by superstitious neighbours who seem to delight in stirring up worry in the minds of other women about pregnancy. There is absolutely no basis in fact that a child can be marked or suffer a physical change because the mother has seen some unpleasant sight or experienced some undesirable sensation.

The first step which every expectant mother should take to safeguard herself and her child is to secure prenatal care during the whole period of her pregnancy. Such care is in the nature of providing for the earliest detection of any abnormal condition and its prompt correction before any harm results.

Through such care, advice as to diet, rest, clothing and other similar matters is received. When such advice is followed, the mother will enjoy a more comfortable pregnancy, an easier delivery, and her child will be healthier.

To bring a child into the world is a normal process for a woman to go through. To do it with a minimum of discomfort and danger, however, it is necessary that she adjust her life to the unusual and extra demands which are placed upon her during this period. It is not a question of being fearful; it is a matter of using common-sense to realize that there are special demands at this time which must receive attention.

In addition to pre-natal supervision, it is necessary, in order to avoid any other dangers, that proper care be provided at the time of confinement. This means that the services of a physician and a nurse which bring to the mother the precautions taken by skilled attendants to protect her and her child, should be available.

Pre-natal care, together with care at confinement, assures the healthy woman that she will go through pregnancy with a minimum of discomfort and a maximum of safety.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

Editor,
Canadian Jewish Review,

I would ask the courtesy of the columns of your paper to bring to the attention of the students of McGill University the following arrangement, to which Prof. Ira A. Mackay, Dean of the Faculty of Arts, has agreed, as a result of an interview I had with him.

Jewish students who will not take the final examinations set for Saturday, May 10th, on the ground of religious scruples, will be permitted to take them in September. These examinations will not be regarded as supplementals; but will have the same status as those of May; no payment of a fee being required, and without in any way prejudicing the students' standing. Assurance has also been given that these special examinations in the Fall will not be held on a Jewish Sabbath or Festival. Jewish students who intend to avail themselves of this privilege are requested to write immediately to Prof. Ira A. Mackay, Dean of the Faculty of Arts.

If a large number of Jewish students will avail themselves of this concession, it will impress the University authorities with the sincerity of our objection to writing examinations on Jewish Sabbath and Festivals, and that may in future influence them not to set examinations on such dates.

Yours sincerely,
Rabbi H. Abramowitz.

Editor,
Canadian Jewish Review,

"He who quotes another brings deliverance to the world." Perhaps it was this sublime thought which moved f.f.c. to quote, with such evident satisfaction, from "Saturday Night" of March 1st, and of September last, editorial comment deriding the organizers of the protest parade and meetings against the excesses in Palestine last summer, and lauding the "more intelligent and moderate element of the local Jewish population" in its endeavor to dissuade the "over-heated Toronto Zionists" from countenancing an appeal to the conscience of the world.

It is extremely significant that f.f.c. should discover in March what—"so powerful and independent a paper as Saturday Night" had said in September. In other words, the Canadian Jewish Review did not see fit to align itself with Saturday Night (of anti-Semitic fame) until a group of local Zionists had dared publish their own weekly in Toronto.

Are we then to ascribe the new wisdom of the Review to an old and sordid trait of the weak human nature: to the feeling that the Zionist organ was encroaching upon the Review's own journalistic domain? Anti-Semites, from Haman to Von-Pleve, have considered it justifiable to punish all the Jews for the sins of the individual Jew. The Review ought not to condemn the fifteen thousand Jews in the parade in Toronto and their sympathizers for the unforgivable offence of the Toronto Zionists in publishing the Standard.

To the unbiased it appears unthinkable that a Jewish journal could gloat over the miserable pronouncements of a "Saturday Night" or of any other "Night". For, what was intended by the world-wide protest movement, of which Toronto's was but a small, though a strong, part? These protest demonstrations were held to draw to the attention of the world that inalienable human rights (among them the right to live) had been violated by the Arabs in Palestine, and that the victims in this case were Jews. If the spirit which animates such protest assemblages was wrong and morally untenable, then, why, in the name of clean journalism, does not f.f.c. once again retire to the sanctuary of the Saturday Night archives to reappear with a meet quotation that Pope Pious, the archbishop of Cantenbury, the rabbis Hertz and Wise and their respective followers are making themselves ludicrous in their effort to divert the attention of the world to the present rulers of Russia and to stop these rulers from suppressing religion. Such citation might further enjoin all contributing editors, including Rabbi Eisendrath, from endorsing the protest movement against the soviets.

But, then, Saturday Night might consider the endeavors of the religionists quite legitimate, since persecution in Russia is not directed at the Jews alone, but is aimed at eradicating Christianity as well. The Review, too, might reaffirm its approval of the plans which have been so elaborately made for the deserved condemnation of the Bolshevik regime. Neither the pope, nor the archbishop, nor the two worthy rabbis have a competitive organ in Toronto to threaten the Review's divine right of circulation and sale of advertising space.

Very respectfully yours,
Maurice Goldstick.
(365A Delaware Ave., Toronto).

Editor,
Canadian Jewish Review,

I have, for some years past been a constant reader of your most interesting journal which has become still more interesting since the advent of Rabbi Maurice Eisendrath as Contributing Editor. His editorials evince a boldness and fearlessness in dealing with his subjects which is most refreshing in these days of religious cant and hypocrisy.

One passage in a recent article on the "Spanish Invitation" seems to call for comment especially in view of the fact that Israel has been a chosen people to whom specific promises have been held out all down through the ages which has kept them a united and separate nation, scattered and without king or country. The Rabbi says: "The recent invitation issued to us the uncanny fulfillment of that far-sighted prophecy conceived by an ancient Hebrew seer who proclaimed; 'In thee shall all the nations of the earth be blessed; Those that curse thee, I shall curse; those that bless thee, I shall bless!'" Strangely enough perspicacious prognostication has proved true."

To anyone familiar with the only authentic history of the nation of Israel from its inception to the end of the Captivity the foregoing quotation could hardly be classed as the "perspicacious prognostication conceived by a far-sighted ancient Hebrew seer" nor yet would it come under the category "that holy men of old wrote as they were inspired by the Holy Ghost" but rather was it not truly the voice of Jehovah, the God of Israel speaking directly to his faithful servant Abraham, through whom in due time he covenanted to bless all families of the earth?

To students of the time features of the prophetic statements of the Bible, the time seems now at hand when the God of Israel is about to manifest his power and glory to the world of mankind in a time of "great trouble such as there has not been since there was a nation" during or after which Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and all the holy men of old will be awakened from their long sleep in death and restored to the land specified in the Abrahamic Covenant and patient Job will be able to stand up and prove that he was right when he said many centuries ago "I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth; and though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God."

The increasing migration of Jews to Palestine to prepare the land suggests that now, if ever, is the time to herald forth the message given through the prophet Isiah: "Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God. Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her, that her warfare (margin; appointed time) is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned; for she hath received at the Lord's hand double for all her sins."

For the year ended December 31st, 1929, the financial statement of the Dominion Engineering Works, Limited, reveals earnings equal to $5.67 per share on the company's outstanding capital stock, as compared with $6.19 per share in the preceding year.

Profits for the year under review amounted to $934,143, as compared with $1,134,672 in 1928 and $675,062 in 1927.

A reflection of the difficult conditions affecting operations of Canadian textile companies is afforded in the omission by directors of Canadian Cottons of the usual quarterly dividend on the common stock.

While the showing in the annual report for the past year was a poor one, it was thought the large reserves built up by the company would have enabled it to maintain payments on the common, even though it may have been necessary to lower the rate.

According to latest advices, the claim of Canadian Car & Foundry Company against the German Government for war damages is on the way to an early settlement, and in quarters close to the company, there is a confident feeling that a decision favorable to the company will be rendered by the Claims Board at Washington. Officials of Canadian Car are now at the Capitol, where the board is scheduled to commence sittings on the 15th of this month.

By a majority of three to two, judges of the Appeal Court, sitting at Osgoode Hall, dismissed the appeal entered on behalf of preferred shareholders of Steel Company of Canada, against a previous decision in favor of common shareholders.

The original action taken in the trial court was decided on August 28th last, when Justice Orde upheld the claim of common shareholders that holders of preference shares are not entitled to participate in any distribution of net profits of the company in excess of their fixed cumulative preferential dividends at the rate of 7% per annum, until the total dividends declared on the ordinary stock since incorporation of the company shall be equal to the rate thereof to that theretofore paid and declared and paid on the preference stock.

Canada Steamship Lines Drop in Earnings

THE financial statement of the Canada Steamship Lines, Limited, for the year ended December 31st, 1929, indicates the sharp contraction in revenue that has been generally anticipated and attributable almost entirely to the decrease in grain tonnage as a result of the far reaching tie-up in Canada, a matter of common knowledge.

The report shows excess of current liabilities over current assets of nearly a million dollars, against net working capital of $2,624,805 in the preceding year. In this connection the president, in a letter to shareholders, points to the very substantial expenditures made by the company on capital improvements in recent years without increase in fixed liabilities. He goes on to state that for necessary financing and betterment of liquid position, the company proposes to issues $2,000,000 of bonds as a mortgage on the Manoir Richelieu and $1,500,000 of bonds on the Kingston Elevator Co.

The report reveals total revenue at $13,876,651, against $17,661,985 in the preceding year. Deduction of operating expenses at $10,946,051 left an operating profit of $2,930,600, against $4,474,443 in 1928. Deduction of interest at $1,368,857; bond discount at $117,575 and depreciation at $1,213,565, left net profit of $230,601. Preferred dividends for the year amounted to $900,000 at $2,490,399, leaving total surplus in the current report at $1,820,985. The annual meeting will be held on April 28th.

Distillery stocks had reached abnormally low levels, having regard to assets and past earning power, before the government bill to discontinue clearances of liquor to dry countries was tabled. Prices did not recede appreciably on the announcement.

It is questionable whether the new bill, when it becomes effective, will alter conditions in the distillery and brewing business materially, except for a brief period. It is regarded as probable that exports of liquor will continue in normal proportions, and quite legitimately as far as Canadian shippers are concerned. There are territories in North America that belong neither to Canada nor the United States, and where prohibition does not exist.

Net earnings of the Montreal Exhibition Co., Ltd. for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1929, showed a drop from the corresponding figures of the previous year, the shareholders of the company were told at the annual meeting. The gross receipts for the period were $268,208 while the expenses were $235,805 leaving the net earnings of $32,805.

J. Ernest Savard, director and treasurer, explained that the earnings were down due to the fact that the company had expended important sums to complete the exhibition building and write off losses incurred in the sale of baseball players. All leases on this account have now been written off, Mr. Savard said.

The annual report of the Mount Royal Hotel Company for the year ended December 31st, 1929, shows an increase in gross income at $3,563,732, as compared with $3,419,492 in the Falconbridge Nickel is reported to be planning more extensive drilling and exploration work. Additional development stations are being prepared at the 1,000-foot horizon for further deep tests. It is expected the company will make its first shipment of nickel matte to the Kristiansid refinery this week.

Newbec has now started mining operations on the 125-foot level. Regular shipments of ore to the Noranda smelter are expected to commence any day. The enlarged mining plant is said to have been tuned up and is now working efficiently.

February oil production from the Turner Valley fell just below the January total, being 10,184 barrels as against 11,428 barrels. The decrease was due to the freezing off of Home No. 1 and Associated, both of which are back to normal now.

A special general meeting of the Home Oil Company has been called for March 22, at Vancouver. The notices indicate that the meeting will be more in the nature of an annual session with stockholders being asked to receive a balance sheet and elect a directorate.

In the calendar year 1929 Lake Shore produced $6,090,189 as against $4,073,965 in 1928, $3,375,053 in 1927, $2,775,000 in 1926 and $1,058,720 in 1925. As tons treated in 1929 totalled 430,170, the average recovery was $14.40 per ton.

Hollinger in 1929 produced $9,455,200, as against $10,706,235 in 1928, $14,539,538 in 1927, $14,829,655 in 1926, and $15,749,109 in 1925. Tons treated in 1929 were 1,549,157, making the average recovery $6.10 per ton.

Teck-Hughes during 1929 produced $5,048,420, as against $4,948,420 in 1928, $2,781,962 in 1927, $1,601,209 in 1926 and $996,943 in 1925. Tons treated in 1929 were 337,630, making the average recovery $15. per ton.

A. P. Consolidated No. 2 is now drilling at around 90 feet in the lime at a total depth of 5,272 feet. This well should be completed in two or three week's time.

Dominion Securities Corporation, in a letter to holders of Asbestos Corporation first mortgage bonds, call attention to the fact that interest was earned over 5½ times before charging depreciation and over 3 times after charging depreciation; $300,000 was charged to depreciation in 1929, as compared with $200,000 in 1928. The sum of $2,151,182 was written off in respect to certain silent and obsolete plans and buildings. Also, the sum of $769,183, which was expended for development work in the years 1927, 1928 and 1929, and not absorbed in the operating costs (the part of which was carried in the balance sheet as at December 31, 1928, as an asset), has been written off.

"Sometimes when people censure me,
I tell them without rancor,
That for what it cost me to be free,
I might have had an anchor."

Many Jews were astonished recently to hear that Dr. Julian Morgenstern, president of the Hebrew Union College, had made the statement that Reform Judaism is the solution for the religious persecutions in Russia. To the detached observer judging from the correspondence between Dr Morgenstern and Bernard Richards, executive secretary of the American Jewish Congress, it would appear that in the publication of such a statement Dr. Morgenstern was made the victim of a trick. In the interest of the truth to which this upright column is so passionately committed, it is a pleasure to assist Dr Morgenstern in trying to straighten out the dilemma he found himself in as a result of what he thought was a private correspondence between himself and Mr Richards but part of which the latter gave to the Jewish Daily Bulletin for publication. According to Dr Morgenstern the story goes something like this:

In December he received from Mr Richards an article by Leo N. Glassman entitled "The Jewish Religion, Culture and Zionism in Soviet Russia" and at the same time a request that he write to Mr Richards "a word of opinion on the situation which is here described." Dr Morgenstern wrote back to Mr Richards that, although conditions affecting Jews and Jewish colonization in Russia and also the Palestinian project, were not as happy as they might be, there was no alternative but to continue the program of upbuilding already begun. That is the gist of his whole letter and it was evidently not enough because Mr Richards wrote to Dr Morgenstern again, saying: "I wrote to you especially because I have been very much troubled in mind by the apparent indifference to the religious situation in Russia on the part of several American Jewish groups and particularly those leaders and spokemen who stress Judaism as the center and foundation of Jewish life. It was the subject of religious repressions that was uppermost in my mind. I was therefore disappointed not to receive your comment on this particular aspect of a most disturbing situation."

Again Dr Morgenstern wrote to Mr Richards as an academic person and in no way representative of any institution or any wing of Judaism. He also invited a reply from Mr Richards but he waited in vain for a continuation of their discussion. Instead this last letter was the only one printed in the Bulletin together with a last word from Mr Richards thus allowing readers only a small foundation upon which to judge Dr Morgenstern correctly. Not only that, but Mr Richards, acting for the American Jewish Congress, had sent out these two letters for release to all Jewish press and agencies with these captions: "Dr Morgenstern Proposes Reform Judaism as Solution of Religious Repressions in Russia. President of Hebrew Union College States that Yevsektzia Stands For Spiritual Progress in Communication to Executive Secretary American Jewish Congress. Mr Richards in Spirited Reply Deplores Lack of Sympathy and Condemns Raising Question of Reform Versus Orthodoxy in Face of Calamity."

Commenting on the first letter he received from Mr Richards, Dr Morgenstern says: "Little did I imagine that I was expected to react with extreme indignation against the Soviet government in general and the Yevseks in particular. Nor did I imagine that I was expected to respond in the fire of my indignation with the proposal of a joint public scathing protest nor even with an offer to join with Mr Richards or with the organization of which he is the very efficient executive director, in such a protest. Still less did I suspect that I should have been on guard and that prudence should have suggested either no reply at all or else one evasive and non-committal. I was probably naïve. Up to that time I had had practically no experience in politics (I hesitate to call it Jewish politics). . . I met Mr Richards only once at the close of the Philadelphia convention of the J D C some four years ago when he and his group had vigorously, and with no little display of passion, opposed the project of Russian colonization. It occurred to me that perhaps he had sent me this paper primarily to point out that the agricultural colonization scheme was apparently not the complete success its supporters had hoped for. . . Academic life and training have accustomed me to think along these lines and to realize that every question must necessarily have two sides, and that both sides must be considered objectively and dispassionately if a reasonable opinion is to be represented. I did not have the least suspicion of any ulterior motive in Mr Richards' correspondence with me. I am no longer as naïve as I was. I have been taught a valuable lesson by a very competent teacher. I understand much better to-day than I did just what Jewish politics is. (Even though I still hesitate, I can no longer refrain from using the adjective). It is indeed an interesting game and no doubt fruitful for those who can play it skillfully. But in face of the tragic situation which confronts our brethren in Russia and also in Palestine, in Poland, in Roumania and other lands and of the heavy and inescapable duty which this lays upon the Jews of American and other favored lands is this the time for petty politics and for attempts to blacken a man's reputation and to weaken whatever influence he may have come to exert and to frustrate whatever service great or small, he may have been able and eager to render to the cause which ought to rise above all others in the mind and heart of every loyal Jew?"

In answer to Dr Morgenstern's question as to whether Mr Richards thought he had acted in a right and honorable way the latter's reply is pretty thin. He said in part: "It is surprising to observe that you considered our correspondence to be of a private character. It seemed highly desirable and necessary to make your views known to the Jewish public as soon as I was able to issue them together with my statement."

Evidently Dr Morgenstern, a mere scholar and a gentleman, was used as a means to an end in the great game of trickery which he hesitantly calls Jewish politics. He was deliberately invited into a frame-up in a way best understood by the repulsive people to whom shooting fish seems routine sport and great amusement. This is hardly the first time an unwary, unsuspecting gentleman has been made the tool in some trained Machiavellian hand nor will it be the last so long as the cynical, the ruthless and the conscienceless require a use for the unworldly wise. Campaign For Council Camp Funds

March 10, marks the opening of the annual campaign for funds for the Council Camp for Girls. This Camp, situated at Lake Fournelle, five miles from Shawbridge Station, is operated by the Council of Jewish Women. During the summer of 1929, 150 girls were received at the camp. 84 girls were at Council Camp during its opening season of 1928. The number, this year, depends upon the support accorded the Council Camp Campaign for Funds. $15 defrays the cost of one girl at camp for two weeks. The Council supplies uniforms, necessities, such as bathing suits, bathrobes, towels, running shoes and train and bus transportation, the highest type of educational instruction and medical attention. A competent staff, consisting of a camp director, four councillors, and a nurse, is in charge all summer. The activities are athletics, arts and crafts, dancing, swimming, dramatics and singing. IN MEMORIAM

MRS. REBECCA SAVEIN

We are thinking of you mother, dear,
  Thinking of the past,
Picturing you in our memory,
  Just as we saw you last.
You left behind aching hearts
  That love you most sincere,
That never did and never will
  Forget you, mother dear.

She suffered long, with patience bore;
  Physicians were in vain.
Till God above with His great love
  Relieved her from all pain.
What would I give her hands to clasp,
  Her dear, kind face to see;
To hear her voice and see her smile
  That meant so much to me.

God knew you were suffering,
  He knew you were in pain,
He knew you would not get better,
  In this world again.
God saw the road was rough,
  And the hills were hard to climb,
So He closed your weary eyelids
  And whispered, "Peace be thine."

Sadly missed by Ralph, Louis, Anne, Alex and Sarah Savein. Passed away March 26th, 1929.

In loving memory of Mary Yaffe, who passed away March 16th, 1929.
In my heart her memory lingers,
But I know 'tis vain to weep.
Tears of love can never wake her
From her peaceful, happy sleep.

Ever remembered by her husband, Jacob; her daughters, Sophie and Rebecca and her sons Phillip and Ben.

$75,000 GIFT TO THE INSTITUTE MARKS BIRTHDAY OF RABBI

A gift of $75,000 was presented to Dr. Stephen, S. Wise for the work of the Jewish Institute of Religion of which he is the president and founder, at a dinner, Sunday evening, March 16th, at the Institute, to celebrate his fifty-sixth birthday. The dinner was arranged by a committee of representatives of forty congregations scattered throughout the country which are served by the graduates and senior students of the Institute. After addresses by the Hon. Julian W. Mack, U.S. Circuit Court Judge, and Chairman of the Board of Trustees, of the Institute; Rabbi Louis I. Newman, of Temple Emanuel, San Francisco, and Rabbi elect of Rodolph Shalom, New York; Joseph H. Hagedorn, president of Congregation Keneseth Israel, Philadelphia, representatives of the congregations presented $35,000, as a joint annual congregation contribution for the support of the Institute. Through its president, Rabbi Maurice J. Bloom of Newburgh, N.Y., the Alumni Association added $30,000 in the form of endowment insurance, and the senior class, soon to be graduated, added a contribution of $10,000 also in the form of endowment insurance.

Dr. Wise, in responding, alluded to the eight years of pioneering work which had fallen to his lot and to that of his comrades, in the founding and maintenance of a school for the training of ministers which should be free from partisanship and leave its faculty and students alike free to learn and to teach.

Dr. Wise, on behalf of his family and himself, endowed a chair in memory of Dr. Wise's father and grandfather, rabbis.

SORORI CLUB

Miss Gertrude Yollick, Euclid Avenue, entertained at tea Sunday for the Sorori Club.

AT LOEWS NEXT WEEK

King Vidor, who has been called the Midas of the screen, because every picture he touches turns into box office gold, is responsible for the next all talking film attraction at Loew's Theatre. Marion Davies is starred, and "Not So Dumb" is the title, the premiere will be next Monday, and everyone declares that this great farce based upon the delightful stage hit "Dulcy" is the best screen comedy that Marion Davies has delivered.

"Dulcy" is a great picture, and one that hasn't lost a laugh in its transformation to celluloid.

A smart stage program with five high calibre acts will feature next week's variety offerings at Loew's Theatre. The headline honors are shared by Jim Toney and Ann Norman presenting "A Man About Town" and the lovely Lee Sisters of earlier motion picture fame and now among the most popular headliners in vaudeville. Jane and Katherine will be seen in a smart song and dance act and will present some of their most spectacular numbers.

Northern Ontario, now open for settlement at fifty cents per acre, contains millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world, its resources in lumber, minerals, water power, fish, game and scenery are immense. The land calls for men to cultivate it, and in return gives health, comfort and prosperity.

What settlers say of the soil, climate, farming, and forest life is told in a most attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regards to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.

MORE ABOUT RUSSIA

It is hard to be indignant at the Soviet Government. At least it is hard to remain indignant. One day's news from Russia arouses worldwide irritation, and the next day's news provokes a grudging applause, says Rabbi Solomon Freehof in the American Israelite.

During the last few weeks the press has been describing the Russian war against religion. The accounts of the confiscation of churches and synagogues, the imprisonment of clergymen revealed the ruthlessness of the proletarian dictatorship.

Now Dr. Rosen tells us that the Soviet Government will spend 15,000,000 rubles (five times as much as the Agro-Joint will spend) for settling Jews on the land. The government intends to place 12,000 Jewish families on farms this year.

Not one of the governments in Eastern Europe where Jews are enduring economic, social and religious oppression is spending anything for Jewish welfare, while Russia, in the very midst of its mad campaign to destroy Jewish Religion, finds the time and the will to make such a generous contribution to Jewish economic rehabilitation. This discrepancy between religious suppression and economic assistance is logical enough but strange!

Even stranger news than that occasionally comes out of Russia. Every now and then we read of some factory worker being tried and convicted of Anti-Semitism. Imagine that occurring in Poland or Rumania. Russia permits no race prejudice. White Russians, Ukrainians, Georgians, Chinese, Mongols, Turkmat — are all of equal standing and are generally permitted cultural self-government if they desire it. Hence Anti-Semitism is firmly suppressed. There is less Jew-hatred in Russia than anywhere else in Europe.

We must take Russia as it is. We should indeed protest against its suppression of religious liberty, but our just indignation should not blind us to Russia's freedom from racial discriminations and its sincere effort to ameliorate the material situation of Russian Jewry.

There is little we can do directly for Judaism in Russia except to protest in the name of liberty against its suppression. Yet Judaism will live in spite of persecution and perhaps also because of it. But in the meantime, thousands of Jews are homeless and economically declassed. It is our obvious duty to accept Russia's willing help and to co-operate with it in the material rehabilitation of Jewry.

Of course, nothing is certain in Russia. The Soviet regime itself may fall. But if Soviet Russia continues as such the Jewish colonies which are part of the whole Soviet economic structure will continue. The safety and economic hope of Jewry in Russia are increasingly bound up with the fate of the Soviets.

Two generations ago a 16-year-old Russian Jewish immigrant named Wolfe Oltarsh, landed in New York City. After many vicissitudes he founded the Oltarsh Engineering Company. His son, David, followed in his footsteps. Last month the construction firm of David Oltarsh, Inc. was awarded a $100,000,000 contract by the Roumanian government to build houses for government employes in Bucharest and other large cities. Mr. Oltarsh's firm has built some of New York's leading structures.
